

Wednesday, September 7, 2005

WRITING PROMPTS

---

Objective:

Students will write an essay using the writing skills from 8/17 lesson.

PROMPT #1:

It's one of those mornings. You woke up late and hardly have time to get ready for school. You rub your eyes, splash water on your face and look in the mirror to comb your hair. You cannot see yourself. You rub your eyes again. You still cant see yourself in the mirror... Think about the following questions: What are advantages and disadvantages to being invisible? What would you do for a day if you were invisible? How would you return too normal again? How would you feel if no one could see you? Write a story about your day as an invisible person and how you returned to normal! Remember to use interesting details and adjectives to make your story exciting to your reader!

PROMPT#2:

What would happen if one morning everyone woke up and found out that their pets could talk? Imagine what would happen if your pet could talk. Think about the things that your pet would like or dislike about its life, and the things that would be important to your pet. Write a story about the day you spent with your talking pet. Remember to use vivid verbs and interesting adjectives in your story.

---

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, PLEASE CALL:
MIAMI-DADE (305) 376-3247 BROWARD (954) 764-7026 EXT. 3247

The Miami Herald
The Herald
el Nuevo Herald