

Cartoons for the Classroom

Presented by NIEonline.com and the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists (AAEC)

Disasters put focus on regulations

By Joe Heller / The Green Bay Press-Gazette

Talking points

1. What are these cartoons saying about government regulations and recent industrial disasters?
2. How did more than 1,000 garment workers die in Bangladesh?
3. What happened that devastated West, Texas?
4. Could better government oversight have prevented those tragedies? How?
5. What is the argument against regulating businesses? Is it valid?

Between the lines

"Businesses can come down here and do pretty much what they want to. That is the Texas way." - Paul Burka, Texas Monthly.

<http://www.nytimes.com/2013/05/10/us/after-plant-explosion-texas-remains-wary-of-regulation.html>

Additional resources

More by Joe Heller

<http://editorialcartoonists.com/cartoon/browse.cfm/HelleJ>

More by Pat Bagley

<http://editorialcartoonists.com/cartoon/browse.cfm/BagleP>

Association of American Editorial Cartoonists

<http://editorialcartoonists.com/>

By Pat Bagley / Salt Lake Tribune