

Cartoons for the Classroom

Presented by NIEonline.com and the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists (AAEC)

Should Trump testify in Russia probe?

Gary Varvel
©2018 INDIANAPOLIS
STAR.COM

garyvarvel.com

Gary Varvel, Indianapolis Star / Courtesy of AAEC

Talking Points

1. What do these cartoons say about the President Donald Trump speaking to special counsel Robert Mueller?
2. How could testifying become a trap for the president?
3. Could testifying still be a problem for Trump if he simply told the truth?
4. Do you think the president generally tells the truth? Why or why not?
5. Who has been attacking Mueller as being unfair?
6. Do you think the investigation has been fair? Why or why not?

Between the lines

"I would love to speak, but I have to find that we're going to be treated fairly.... If I thought it was fair, I would override my lawyers."
- President Trump

<https://www.cnn.com/2018/05/04/politics/trump-mueller-interview-russia/index.html>

Additional resources

■ More by Gary Varvel

<http://editorialcartoonists.com/cartoon/browse.cfm/VarveG>

■ More by Singe Wrillkinson

<http://editorialcartoonists.com/cartoon/browse.cfm/WilkiS>

■ Association of American Editorial Cartoonists

<http://editorialcartoonists.com/>

Copyright by Singe Wilkinson

Singe Wilkinson, Philadelphia Daily News / Courtesy of AAEC